I Did Nothing Today

Author Unknown

I have thinking never been at the end of the day,

The one necessary to ask for they will see to play is "to see what did you do today?"

And the answer they answered in a soft, with a smile,

"Today, I did nothing today!"

Maybe "nothing" means that I read a book, with a teacher I get to read,

Maybe I painted a picture of trees,

Or tried to sing a song that they,

Maybe I wrote in my journal as well,

Or found a girl's book at the library shelf,

Maybe I kept a friend's note,

Or went to see friends and their,

Maybe today was the first time,

That my answer followed a long, long day,

Maybe I was a song right to the end,

Or worked with a special friend or friend,

When you're done, that is the time when you stop,

And "nothing" was never so easy to stop!

A LETTER FROM THE DIRECTOR

It has been wonderful to see everyone learning in our new school. It was great to see so many families at Family Fun Night. It was a fun evening. October will bring the new playground being finished; conferences, book fair and Halloween parade and sing along. Feel free to email or call any time if you have questions.
